

Photosynthesis converts light energy into chemical energy. It occurs in chloroplasts.

The Calvin cycle fixes carbon dioxide using RuBisCO. It runs in the stroma.

ATP is produced via chemiosmosis across the thylakoid membrane during the light reactions.

Mitochondria are the powerhouse of the cell. They perform oxidative phosphorylation.

The electron transport chain pumps protons across the inner mitochondrial membrane.